The vine

Plot/climat Les Folatières

History There are differing opinions on the origin of the name of this climat. For some, it derives from the fog banks—locally called "follots"—which sometimes appear here. Others refer to "folles-terres" due to the frequent erosion caused by heavy rainfall. This lieu-dit is one of the most famous in Puligny-Montrachet. It is also the largest Premier Cru, covering almost 18 hectares.

Soil Thin clay-silty soil with a very high level of active limestone. Numerous scree can be found scattered across the plot.

Our plot(s) 60a 8 ca. Located in the heart of the hillside. Steep slope from 10% to 15% facing south-east.

The wine

100% Chardonnay, handpicked, vinified and matured in oak casks.

Taste Slightly golden robe. A complex and powerful nose combining white flowers, honey, and orchard fruits. The attack is smooth, deep in the middle of the mouth, with a broad finale and great persistence.

Serving temperature 12/14°C. It is recommended to decant recent vintages so as to enhance the aroma.
